Status of Georgia Farm Work Reported Excellent in March

Peach Crop Condition 57 Per Cent of Normal on April 1, Says Crop Service.

ATHENS, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—Excellent progress was made with farm work in Georgia during the latter part of March, the Georgia crop reporting service reported today.

The statement also showed the condition of the peach crop on April 1 was 57 per cent of normal, well above the 40 per cent of the corresponding period a year ago but still far under the 1924-1930 average of 73 per cent. "The latter part of March was generally favorable for field work over the greater part of Georgia," the statement said. "Considerable planting of the main crops had been done in southern territory with a small amount of acreage up to a stand."

"Some damage to tobacco plants in the bed was reported but the plant supply is ample, since growers, because of the serious plant shortage last year resulting from mold, sowed beds in excess of intended acreage needs."

"In the northern part of the state little planting of crops had been done but preparation was well under way." For the 10 southern states the April 1 peach crop condition was given as 47.2 per cent of normal compared with 33.4 last year and the average of 70.6.

"In most of the southern states," the report said, "peach trees were again abnormally advanced by warm weather through January, as in the preceding season, and the sharp frosts of early February caught many trees well advanced in bud and bloom, especially in the extreme south. Later periods of cold added to the damage sustained early in February. Subsequent weather conditions will have an important bearing upon the outcome of the southern peach crop."

The Georgia wheat crop was reported of good color and making excellent growth with condition 74 per cent compared to 78 per cent a year ago and 79 per cent for the 10-year average. Harvest was estimated at 626,000 bushels against 703,000 last year.

Corn stocks on farms in Georgia April 1 were estimated at 15,256,000 bushels against 14,808,000 on the same date last year.

Staves of Georgia Oak Used in Beer Barrels

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—Revival of legalized beer sales has brought new life to the old Savannah river boat Richmond, which has been bought by M. H. Newsome, lumberman of Soperton, Ga., for transporting staves used in making beer kegs.

He purchased it from the Charleston & Western Carolina railroad and is en route with it to his timber boundary on the Oconee river.

Lumbermen throughout eastern Georgia report increasing demands for white oak staves since beer was legalized in many states.

It is concerned with the historical, political and sociological treatment of the development leading to the present status of negro suffrage, with a consideration of the equity and durability of the laws existing today.

TRUSTEES OF MERCER VOTE REDUCED BUDGET

University Also Plans To Erase Deficit of $6,000 Before June 1.

MACON, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—A reduced budget for the new year was adopted and plans for erasing the institution's deficit by June were formulated at a meeting of the Mercer University board of trustees this afternoon in the library building on the campus.

Although no figures for the budget were announced, it was learned that the budget will be smaller than that for the year just drawing to a close, and although the matter of teachers' salaries was not taken up by the board, present plans of the institution's administration are to make no further reductions.

Money "to put the university even with the world" by June 1 will be solicited by members of the board of trustees from friends of the institution, it was decided, and it was learned after the meeting that approximately $6,000 will be sought. Several years ago the deficit was about $18,000, but it has been reduced by approximately $12,000.

The board also approved a revised curriculum for the university under which all deans except the dean of the school of liberal arts and the dean of the law school will be eliminated. This plan eliminates the various schools of the university and makes them departments of the school of liberal arts, with the former deans becoming "head professors" in their departments of divisions.

Selection of the faculty personnel for the university was left to Dr. Spright Dowell, president and chairman of the board, and the executive committee, which is headed by T. E. Ryals, Macon lawyer. The board merely approved the "normal number" of teachers and the budget, and Dr. Dowell and the committee will work out the details.

EIGHT STATE CONVICTS NOT CAPTURED FRIDAY

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—Eight convicts who escaped from the state prison farm Thursday afternoon were still at liberty tonight. The men were working in a field, when they overpowered a guard, forced him to the highway, where they required him to stop an automobile in which they made the first leg of their flight. Later the eight men seized a new automobile and headed toward Macon. No trace of the car has been found beyond the lower Macon road, into which they turned. It was believed possible tonight that the eight men had headed toward Savannah or Florida.

Negress Wills Home to Mill That Gave Her Employment

MACON, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—Polly Stewart's last thoughts were of those who gave her a job in the prime of life and cared for her in old age, and so the Bibb Manufacturing Company, one of the south's greatest textile firms, is heir to a modest little home in the negro quarter.

The negress started work in the big plant longer ago than most employees remember. She was diligent and for that the company liked her. She was thrifty and by means of that she bought her home in East Macon. The years crept upon Polly Stewart and after while she was not able to work. Ten years ago they sent her home to stay and told her not to worry about doctor's bills or household expenses. The other day Polly died at the age of 74 and left a will bequeathing her residence to the Bibb Company.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 14.—William Thomas Johnston, well-known Columbus businessman, died Thursday afternoon at his home. He had been ill for the past four weeks. Mr. Johnston had resided in this city since 1905. He had been a member of the Maxwell-Johnston Company, Johnston-Dickerson Company, Johnston-Blackmon Company and for several years a partner of the concern of Johnston-Cunningham Furniture Company. He was a member of the First Baptist church and of the Masonic fraternity.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. A. I. Cunningham, of Columbus and Mrs. R. Bruce Robertson, of Birmingham; one brother, B. O. Funeral services were held this afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. I. Cunningham. Dr. Frederick S. Porter, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated. Interment was in Riverdale cemetery.

MACON SUIT ATTACKS NEW VETERANS' LAWS

MACON, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—A suit attacking the constitutionality of recent legislation dealing with veterans was filed here today. Mrs. Margaret Shea Lynch, of Albany, the plaintiff, alleges the legislation denies the right to institute suit against the government, which, she contends, is guaranteed under a due process of law clause in a constitutional amendment.

The suit was filed in the federal court here today.

SURVEY SHOWS FARMS RAISED $352 IN FOOD

ATHENS, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—Records of the State College of Agriculture in 19 counties in the Piedmont section of Georgia show that the total value of food obtained from the farm last year averaged $352. Dairy products, amounting to $110, took first rank, followed by poultry, $85; meat, $75; and vegetables, $43; home canned goods, $27 and fruits and nuts $23. In addition $29 was added for wood and $132 for house rent.

Counties in which the records were kept were Gwinnett, DeKalb, Cobb, Carroll, Troup, Meriwether, Coweta, Spalding, Henry, Walton, Jackson, Franklin, Hart, Wilkes, Greene, Putnam, Morgan, Clarke and Oconee.

The average size of farm was 120 acres in crops and four head of work animals, he said. Only four vegetables were found on all of the 73 farms listed. These were string beans, roasting ears, sweet and Irish potatoes.

Other vegetables which ranked high were tomatoes, turnips and green peas.

NEW CONTRACT SEEN ON MACON POSTOFFICE

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP)—Representative Vinson, democrat, Georgia, said today that "it looks like a new contract will be awarded" for the Macon (Ga.) postoffice.

The Concord Construction Company, of Philadelphia, recently defaulted in its $208,000 contract on the building, and treasury officials are making an appraisal to ascertain whether to seek new bids or demand that the bonding company construct the building.

Home Damaged.

FORT VALLEY, Ga., April 14.—The residence of Glenmore Green was damaged by fire of unknown origin early Thursday morning. The loss was covered by insurance.

NEW WORM RAVAGING TOBACCO IN S. GEORGIA

Concern of Farmers Grows as Pest Destroy Lower Leaves of Plants.

WAYCROSS, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—South Georgia farmers feel increasing concern over the appearance of a small worm that feeds on the lower leaves of tobacco plants with great damage.

J. L. Bridges, farm agent of Lanier county, and D. L. Branyon, agent of Berrien county, say farmers have been at a loss to identify the invaders and have been experimenting with various kinds of poison in seeking means of combating them.

Bridges displayed a number of the worms, which resemble the dread cut worm except that they confine their damage to the lower leaves. He intends to carry specimens to the coastal plains experiment station at Tifton for identification and study.

Dr. R. J. Heyde, Ware county farm agent, said none has been seen in this county but he warned farmers to "be on the watch out."

Four Badly Injured At Grade Crossing

MACON, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—A motorized train, running between Barnesville and Thomaston, Ga., this afternoon crashed into an automobile at a grade crossing six miles from Thomaston, injuring two women and two children, two of whom are in a critical condition.

The highway and railroad are parallel for some distance at the scene of the accident and railroad men say that the automobile turned suddenly onto the crossing in front of the train.

The injured were brought to a private hospital in this city. They are: Mrs. Frank S. Burson, broken collar bone.

Mrs. Lou S. Ellington, unconscious and possible internal injuries. Jeff Ellington, 3-year-old son of Mrs. Ellington, fractured skull and believed to be fatally injured.

Jack Ellington, 4, another son, severely bruised.

All of the injured resided in Thomaston.

GEORGIAN PRESIDENT OF YOUNG DEMOCRATS

Humane Society Raps Live Easter Chick Idea

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—The Augusta Humane Society says the sale of live chicks for Easter gifts is nothing short of cruelty and it wants the practice stopped. The chicks are placed in the hands of "irresponsible children," the society contends, "and they are almost necessarily subjected to inhumane treatment."

The practice of dyeing chicks to correspond with colored Easter eggs also brought denunciation from the society. Instances in which the little fowls were blinded by the dye were cited.

MOULTRIE, Ga., April 14.—Waldo DeLoache Jr., 8, only child of Judge Waldo DeLoache of the Moultrie city court, was killed late today when he was hit by an automobile driven by Mrs. Harry Beverly and in which Mrs. McH. Pryor was a passenger.

The accident, which occurred in Hill Crest, a residential subdivision here, apparently was unavoidable, witnesses said. The victim was playing in the street with Mrs. Pryor's young son just a short distance from the Pryor home. The boy was carried to a hospital, but was dead when surgeons examined him.

GEORGIA SUBDIVIDED FOR FORESTRY WORK

State Made Into Three Districts for Better Extension Work.

ATHENS, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—Division of Georgia into three districts as a means of enlarging forestry extension work has been announced by the extension service of the University of Georgia, said today.

Federal and state forestry agencies and the university extension service is co-operating to make the new work a success, J. Phil Campbell, head of the extension service, said today.

Under the plan DuPre Barrett is assigned to District 1, made up of 46 north Georgia counties, with headquarters at Athens.

Bonnell H. Stone is assigned to 41 middle and southwest Georgia counties, while K. S. Trowbridge will have charge of the south Georgia group. Among other duties advice will be given to farmers on planting, thinning and fire protection methods.

The shooting occurred about an hour before young Bonner died. The two boys were playing together on the banks of the Oconee river. The bullet entered young Bonner's abdomen and he died shortly after he was carried to a hospital.

Fann, who is only 14 years old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isom Fann. Both boys attended the same school here. Funeral arrangements for young Bonner had not been made Friday night.

Independence Checks

What is YOUR idea of independence, —something like this?

YOU are married, have two or three children, occupy a mortgaged house, expect to give those children a college education, and desire to have comfort and independence for yourself and your wife when your working period is over. Is not this the situation of the average family?—very likely it is yours! You are a level-headed man and are not afraid to look facts in the face. You agree that your family must not suffer financially if the summons should come early to you. The home must then be freed of its mortgage and have a steady and sufficient income, and the children must have the education that you and your wife had planned,—in brief, financial independence! There's no other way you can do it than by life insurance. You haven't now a sufficient reserve in bank or in other investments, and it would take you years to make the necessary accumulation.

Now, we will say that the years have passed. From your earnings you paid the mortgage and educated the children, and you and your wife have reached the time of rest from active work. The life insurance you took out in those early years to protect your family now will provide financial independence for these later years.

If you are a single man or woman, and have no family obligations, you can have financial independence in your later years, safe, sure, adequate, under one of our several Retirement Income plans. No fluctuation in value, no danger to principal, no suspension of income. Our entire resources are back of each such contract.

Founded in 1847, for more than eighty-six years we have been enabling American men and women to carry out their life's plans. We are daily sending Independence Checks from Independence Square to the families of those who have answered the call, and to those who have reached life's resting time.

On December 31, 1932, this was our financial status:—Assets, $514,588,274; Liabilities, $486,874,794; Surplus (contingency reserves for mortality and asset fluctuation), $27,713,480. Insurance in force, $2,008,947,312.

Sign your Declaration of Financial Independence during "Financial Independence Week," April 17 to 22.

LEDFORD FUNERAL TO BE HELD TODAY

Large Group of State Authorities Will Form Honorary Escort.

State officials and prominent Georgians will pay tribute this afternoon to M. L. Ledford, 67, state treasurer, whose funeral will be held at 3 o'clock in Cairo, Ga., his former home.

Mr. Ledford, who had been treasurer since December 30, 1931, died unexpectedly of a heart attack early Friday morning at his home at 908 Ponce de Leon avenue after a long period of failing health.

A large group of state authorities will form an honorary escort at the rites, which are to be held at the Cairo Baptist church, of which he was a deacon. The Rev. D. P. Lee will officiate and he will be buried in the Cairo cemetery. The body was taken to Cairo Friday night via the Central of Georgia railway by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Governor Eugene Talmadge Friday issued a proclamation lamenting the death of one of the state's most efficient and best-known officers. The flag at the state capitol will fly at half-staff for 30 days and the capitol will be closed all day today in honor of Mr. Ledford.

"Georgia, in the passing of Hon. M. L. Ledford, treasurer of the state, has lost one of her most loyal and distinguished sons, and one whose public career as a servant of the people of Georgia was marked by unwavering devotion to duty and to the welfare of the people," the proclamation read.

Governor Talmadge, though several persons have been recommended to him to fill the unexpired term, Friday said he would make no appointment until after the funeral unless an emergency arose.

Mr. Ledford, widely known in north Georgia, had been state senator from Grady county and was also its school superintendent and county attorney. He defeated G. B. Hamilton, of Atlanta, in the last election for state treasurer.

GEORGIA DOCTORS AID CLINIC AT TUSKEGEE

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., April 14.—Nineteen Atlanta doctors and ten other Georgia physicians have aided 180 other medical men in making a success of the week's annual clinic here, during which 1,000 patients have been treated in the first five days of the week.

The Atlanta attending the clinics here were Doctors H. M. Butler, Marion Pruitt, W. F. Houshouser, Huitt Askew, H. R. Butler, L. C. Fischer, Raymond Reeves and H. M. Holmes. The other Georgians were Doctors W. A. Davis, Macon; Howard Griffin, Bainbridge; T. H. Brewer, Columbus; J. M. Dasher, Americus; F. D. Sessions, Washington; I. D. Williams, Savannah; W. P. Galliano, Columbus; W. T. Ayers, Columbus; and G. N. Woodward, Fort Valley.

The clinic will end Saturday and elections of officers of the John A. Andrews Clinical Society will be held on the final date.

Dr. R. R. Moton, principal of Tuskegee Institute, today issued a statement expressing appreciation of "the happy significance of the inter-racial co-operation" shown by scores of doctors of the white and negro races working in co-operation in the clinic for the benefit of the negro doctors and more than 1,000 negro patients in need of instructions and medical attention.

The HONEYMOON MURDER

BY CAROLYN WELLS

INSTALLMENT ONE.

The summer home called Lovell Terrace was one of the most effective on Long Island, and its simple, straight lines were far more suggestive of cool, pleasant afternoons than were neighboring houses surrounded by elaborate gardens and fancy hedges.

That is, as to its front lawns. At the back there were flowers a-plenty, and now, in early October, there were chrysanthemums, golden glow, cosmos, and other autumn blooms, which mingled with the sumac and asters until the place was a mass of color.

The house itself had a great front porch, with columns from pediment to porch, whose main rectangle had wings connected by covered passages so large as to be really rooms.

In the garden, two girls were walking. Perilla Fairfax, daughter of the house, who would become a bride tomorrow, and Hilda Sheldon, who would be her maid of honor.

"Just think, Hilda, this is the last day Lovell Terrace will be my home!"

"Nonsense, your home as much as ever! You'll have two homes, that's all. Three, in fact, when you get your city home in shape."

"All the homes I want anyway. You know, I'm marrying Corey for his money, that's all."

"Of course, I know. It's what he's marrying you for that I can't tell."

"I can give you that bit of information, if you want it," and Corey Malden came down the steps of the back porch.

Malden was older than his bride-to-be. He was about 38, while Perilla was 24. Yet, for some reason, they had from their first meeting felt a congeniality of tastes and opinions, which had quickly grown to friendship and as quickly to love.

And on the following day they were to be married, and their intimate friends found it hard to say which of the two seemed the happier at the prospect.

Malden, extremely rich, thought of his money only to give it to others or use it himself for pleasure or profit, never for ostentation.

Perilla, beautiful but not vain, cared for her beauty only because it pleased her fiancé, and brought her the loving praise of his lips and eyes.

A handsome man was Corey Malden, living in Richmond, where he well suited the role of country gentleman. He longed for the day when he would take his lovely bride to Virginia, and though Perilla was not at all like a southern girl she would hold her own with the best of them.

For though John Lovell, owner of Lovell Terrace, was a southerner, he was not the father of Perilla. She was the child of Mrs. Lovell and her first husband, Charles Fairfax. Of a romantic nature, she had named the baby Perilla, and her other child, a boy, Malcolm.

The two Fairfax children had grown up happily and at peace with the family, and two years after the death of their father, they had accepted a new parent with calm approval and good-natured welcome.

Malden, though two years older than Perilla, had no romantic leanings and looked upon her wedding somewhat as a joke.

"Perilla, on the other hand, was making a solemn ritual of it, and Malcolm gazed her for it."

"Well, my turtle doves," he said, coming round the corner of the house, "I'm ready yet to change your plans and give up your mistaken idea."

"Not yet, Mal," returned his sister, "but when we do I'll let you know."

"What time you leaving the house, Peril?"

"Don't know, I'm sure. What time, Corey?"

"Oh, about four or five," said the prospective bridegroom.

"That's the fun of going in your own car," said Hilda. "You don't have to go until you are ready. Get off that brick wall, Perilla; you'll catch a cold."

Perilla jumped off the low wall and, going into Corey's arms, nestled there.

Of course, her speech that she was marrying Malden for his money was a great joke, and Hilda understood it as such. Perilla, however, to the great wealth, gave little thought to the great fortune of the man she was about to marry, and Corey Malden, unostentatious in tastes, wanted only to give his bride everything she might care for.

Perilla, at 24, was like the most of her generation, world-wise, but she had a good sense of humor, which made her a general favorite, and a kindly generous nature, which brought her crowds of friends.

Until meeting Corey Malden, she had seen no man she cared for especially, but he had captured her staunch young heart, and now she longed to be with him the rest of her life.

Malden, too, had fallen victim to her charms at once, and their courtship had been rapid and sincere.

The parents had approved the match, for though Lovell was a stepfather, he always took an interest in the doings of his wife's children, and was often consulted about them.

The outlook then for the wedding the next day seemed in every way favorable, and preparations were practically completed.

"You don't seem a bit flustered," said Hilda, shaking her blonde curls as she looked at Perilla. "You ought to be nervous and almost hysterical."

"Why?" asked Perilla, "but I'm a mum's overbearing everything, and she's a marvel of an over-seer. Oh, here's Mr. Gaskell. Hello, Mr. Best. Corey, tell everybody who's who."

Malden made introductions all round, and the newcomer fitted himself into the circle, to his surprise.

"Call me Tony," he said. "Makes me feel more at home, and then, it's such a pretty name!"

"It is a pretty name," protested Perilla. "I mean, it's a jolly name, one of the sort I like."

"Yes, I know," smiled Gaskell. "Like Pete and Billy and such. Me for Marmaduke and Reginald."

"You and I are rather out of it, Malcolm," said Malden, looking down at his, and said, "Be it understood, plainly, that there is no name in the world so beautiful as Corey. I have spoken."

"Speak again," begged Gaskell. "I like to hear you talk."

"You don't have to urge her," said Malcolm. "Peril is a chatter-box."

"Thank heaven for that," and Malden laughed. "It relieves me of a lot of responsibility. I hate to talk!"

"Listen to him!" exclaimed Tony. "I've known that guy for years, and as a talker he's a complete radio outfit."

"How come you've known him so long," asked Hilda, "and yet you've never been here before?"

"I couldn't get old Tony here very often," said Malden's soft, southern voice. "He's all wrapped up in his law class. One of the most famous lawyers in Philadelphia, our best man is."

"Thank you, sir," was the gay response, and then catching sight of a stranger, Tony dropped his voice lower, and said, "Don't look now, but who is the houri tripping across the lawn?"

"Just as well look now as any time," said Malcolm. "It's Miss Lattimer, Hilda's faithful and trustworthy social secretary. What is it, Jane?"

"Mrs. Lovell wonders if you won't all come into the house; it's tea time."

"We sure will. My Soul's Awakening," and rose. "Wait a minute while I line up these strangers within our gates. But you know Corey Malden—not?"

"Oh, yes, I've met Mr. Malden several times."

"Of course she has, Mal," said Perilla. "Jane knows everybody here except Mr. Gaskell. Jane, let me present Tony Gaskell, our best man, except this pleasant-faced boy named Corey."

An affectionate smile passed from Perilla to her fiancé, and then to the boy. In fact he sometimes looked older than he was. But the lines of his face and the dignity of his bearing were not of age, but because of a studious, thoughtful life, and long hours of scholarly work.

Born into a wealthy and educated Virginia family, he had lived most of his life in the south, and far from being gregarious, he had devoted his time to an intensive study of the religions of the world, and had made discoveries and proved theories which had got him a name high on the roll of honor of his chosen subject.

At times he had needed certain legal assistance and had chosen the help of Tony Gaskell, with whom he had built up a lasting friendship.

"Oh, Mr. Gaskell," cried Jane, "how nice of you to come! I was afraid you wouldn't and I'd have to take on your duties, too, and I've just all I can attend to!"

Jane, the secretary, was bubbling over with good-humored smiles. Without any effect of presumption, she was the friend of the family, the helper in all social duties or courtesies, and the general assistant of Perilla and her mother.

"There, there, Mona Lisa," said Malden. "Let's deliver your message, run along now, and we'll follow."

Jane, laughing ran along, turning to wave her hand as she went. "Peril, don't you know like that!"

"She's a dear," said Perilla. "Some girls would be spoiled by our foolery, but she takes it beautifully. Malcolm calls her those foolish names, because—"

"I'll tell it," her brother interrupted. "You see, Jane looks just like a picture I once saw in some gallery. So I call her all the pictures I can think of, hoping sometime I'll hit the right one and recognize it."

"I'm helping you," said Perilla, looking dismayed. "What will you ever do without me, Mal?"

"Don't worry, darling, it isn't one of the things that matters. Come on, now, didn't you hear the summons?"

Messenger To Face Smokies in Final Game of Home Series Today

'Oh, Orioles, My Orioles, Orioles, Doggone Their Souls . . .'

Colonel Tillinghast L'Hommedieu Huston, the chief adviser of the Crackers, was humming a little song which was the tune of "Maryland, My Maryland."

It ran on something like this:

"Orioles, My Orioles, Orioles, Doggone their souls."

There was a lot more of it and it celebrated the prowess of the old Orioles of which Wilbert Robinson was a member.

"The old Orioles were a lot of battlers," said Colonel Huston, "and the toughest battler of them all was Wilbert Robinson. But Robby has softened up."

"Robby used to go down the base line and meet runners about halfway to third. If he could he would trip them up or bump them off balance. He was a tough boy to handle in there and he never backed away from spikes. Yes, sir, I guess Robby is softening up and I will have to give him some advice."

"When the Orioles slid into a base they always slid with the spikes up. And I don't think they would have minded cutting your heart out with those spikes. There were very few infielders who could face those spikes. Yes, sir, I guess Robby is all soft. What his club needs is more of the old Robby stuff."

"The Orioles used to send a runner in from second without having him go by third. He'd just run in across the diamond. They didn't have but one umpire and the idea was to grab the umpire turn him around and argue while the runner came home. And you know who used to be the guy to cuff the umpire around? Wilbert Robinson. Yes, I guess Robby is getting soft. He doesn't maul the umpires any more."

"Once Tim Hurst, the umpire, got even with Robby. Robby was wearing a big handle-bar dauber in those days. He kept it waxed. When he cussed Tim Hurst why Tim Hurst just grabbed the mustache and almost pulled Robby's face off. Yes, I think I'll have to give him some advice. He has shaved off his dauber."

"Oh, Orioles, My Orioles, Orioles, Doggone their souls."

It is very evident that Colonel Til Huston has not softened up. I am convinced that what we need is more of the old Oriole spirit.

Colonel Til Huston is a veteran of two wars, the romantic Spanish-American War and the greater but less romantic World War.

When they were examining the colonel for the big war the doctors tapped him here and there and suggested that his heart, or ticker, was weak and that maybe he was a bit old.

"Examine my crawl and see if there is any sand in it," said the colonel, very sternly.

And so they passed him and he went to France and built most of the roads that were built.

Every time the colonel goes to New York his wife becomes fearful. She is afraid that he will go off to another war. "If a band comes down Broadway," she said, "he will fall in behind it."

THE HOSS RACES TODAY.

The hosses will run at Lakewood park this afternoon in the final program of the week. And very good races they are with no dirt being done and no hosses being pulled. Running on the hard track, and running as often as they do, it is but natural that their performance will not be consistent.

There is more "wisdom" about a paddock than any other spot in the world. I mean there are more fellows who think they know the inside. And you may bend in an ear and hear that this hoss had a bad night or that another hoss didn't relish his oats. And you may get touted to sure-fire tips. But all the "wisdom" of the paddock gossips is worth nothing at all. It's a gamble, anyway you take it.

It has been most interesting to watch one of the amusement sins be put on in Georgia. There have been great crowds at the races and they have won many friends for the sport. It is unfortunate that baseless charges were made against them. They are really very picturesque and if you have never watched the hosses run don't miss the chance.

THE GREATEST PITCHING FEAT.

It was just 20 years ago this spring that Walter Johnson hung up his great pitching record for consecutive scoreless innings.

In the opening game Johnson was pitching against New York. The Yankees scored a run in the first inning. They did not score another. And Johnson followed up with 48 consecutive scoreless innings. He was not scored on from the first inning on April 10 until May 14, more than a month. In all he pitched 56 scoreless innings, working five complete games and appearing as a relief pitcher in five.

No other pitcher has ever been able to come close to that particularly amazing pitching feat.

MAYOR KEY ADOPTS CRACKERS.

Mayor James L. Key has been won over to baseball in a most emphatic manner. He and Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson have become great friends and mutual admirers.

Chief T. O. Sturdivant has also become captivated by Your Uncle Wilbert's personality. He has given Robby a card which makes him a deputy or something. At any rate, he feels safe when he parks his car in a doubtful spot.

George Carroll, former mayor of Cincinnati, who came to see Robby's team start the season, is staying over for the week-end. "I don't think I've ever been for a team as much as I am for this Atlanta team," he said.

MR. ROOS BATHES.

Mr. Chick Roos, the dapper secretary and business manager, received an iced tea bath yesterday at lunch under the supervision of Your Uncle Wilbert.

While at lunch Your Uncle Wilbert was describing some of the activities at Dover Hall. He made a sweeping gesture with his arm just as the waitress started to place a tall glass of tea on the table.

His hand struck the glass and the contents catapulted into the lap of Mr. Roos. His spirits were dampened for the remainder of the afternoon.

BECK DEFEATS PHILS IN DEBUT WITH DODGERS

Brooklyn Wins, 7-1; Hal Lee Only Serious Battering Threat.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—(P)—Walter Beck, the big right-hander from Memphis, made an auspicious National League debut and Johnny Frederick made things look very tough for Hack Wilson's hopes of playing right field for Brooklyn today as the Dodgers turned back the Phillies for the second time, 7 to 1.

Beck kept the hard-hitting Phils completely subjugated, giving them only seven hits and fanning five. Only Hal Lee could do any effective hitting against him. He connected for a double and two singles.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, pounded their former teammate, Austin "Cy" Moore, and his successors, Hansen and Grabowski, for 15 hits. Frederick set the pace by pasting a homer and three singles in his first four trips to the plate. He walked the fifth time.

Brooklyn never was in danger after the first inning when Frederick's circuit blow climaxed a four-run rally. The Dodgers scored once in the second inning on an error by Dekker, a double by Jake Flowers and Beck's fly just before the Phils got their only run. Davis scored it, getting a single, reaching second on Lee's two-bagger and coming home on Neal Finn's fly.

In the big fourth Dan Taylor started things off with a single, Joe Stripp hit for two bases and Frank O'Doul followed with a single to bring them home. Frederick then drove over the right-field wall for a homer and two more runs.

Brooklyn added another pair of tallies in the seventh on four straight singles by O'Doul, Frederick, Judge and Cuccinello.

A crowd of 6,000 chilled fans saw the game, played in even colder weather than yesterday's opener.
